CLARK SAYS FDR, JOHNSON INCITED WAR 'SCARE'

State Gives Final Approval to City Sewerage Projects

Health Department Rules to Allow WPA Work to Be Done as Result of Conference

Work Is Needed

Fourth Ward, Marius St. and Mountain View Ave. Need Facilities

All local WPA sewer projects that have been sumbitted by the city, including an extensive sewer construction program in the Fourth ward, have been approved by the state health department, it was announced Tuesday afternoon at the regular monthly meeting of the board of public works.

All WPA sewer projects had been held up by the state health department, which refused to grant the necessary construction permits to allow the work to proceed on the ground that the city had not started construction work on the proposed sewage disposal plant.

Conference Held

The granting of the permits for sewer construction followed a recent conference Mayor C. J. Heiselman and members of the board held with Earl Devendorf, assistant director of the state division of sanitation.

The sewer projects that have been approved and on which work may now proceed include the Fourth ward sewer project. City Engineer James G. Norton informed the board yesterday that the largest section in the city now without sanitary sewer facilities was in North Rondout in the Fourth ward.

With the approval of the state health department this section of the city will shortly be provided with much needed sewer facilities.

Other sewer projects approved include O'Neil street, Mountain View avenue and Marius street.

Mayor Heiselman, who presided at the meeting, read a communication from Mr. Devendorf who wrote that the sewer plans were approved in general accordance with the agreement reached at the conference held here in September regarding the sewage treatment situation.

Devendorf's Suggestion

Dr. Devendorf wrote that he realized that the statement made at the conference that the city was not at present financially able to bear the cost of constructing a sewage disposal plant, but he believed a useful unit of the work could be set up as a local WPA project.

He had discussed, he wrote, the situation in general with Clarence Post, chief engineer and deputy state WPA administrator, who had believed that such a project was feasible, and that Mr. Post was willing to come to Kingston with him in November for another conference.

In the meantime the city engineer and his staff will prepare a tentative plan for the construction as a useful unit of the proposed plant to be submitted later as a WPA project.

More Men on WPA

Mayor Heiselman called the board's attention to the fact that when the law went into effect in September that all who had been employed on WPA for a continuous 18 months' period be laid off, that in Kingston it had meant that 290 men were taken from the WPA payroll.

Since then the local welfare department had certified to the local WPA the names of 139 of the 290 men laid off who were eligible for work on WPA after their cases had been re-investigated.

It was expected that of the 290 men who had been laid off the WPA that approximately 250 men would be given work this year. Of this number there are a few new cases who have never been employed on WPA projects before. The exact number was not known.

Mayor Heiselman said that the city authorities had been doing all that was possible to get men back to work on the WPA but it took considerable time to re-investigate each case. No one could be certified as eligible for work until such an investigation was made and completed.

To Plant Trees

Superintendent Ernest Steuding informed the board that as soon as the leaves were off the trees he would be ready to plant some 3,000 hard maple trees along the city's curbs.

Householders who desired to have a tree planted in front of their home should write the public works board at once.

The trees would be supplied free of charge as long as the supply lasted. The city would plant the trees, which will only be positioned between the curb and the sidewalk.

To Sue Heane

At the request of the corporation counsel the board adopted a

Cleaning Shop Blast Shakes Movie, Three Dead

This wreckage, piled in the street near New York's Madison Square, resulted when an explosion occurred in a dry cleaning shop alongside a motion picture theatre. Three, and possibly more, persons were killed, police said, including the woman operator of the shop. Several women patrons of the movie fainted and were rescued by students from nearby College of the City of New York.

LaGuardia Picks Gehrig As Commissioner of Parole

New York, Oct. 11 (AP).—Mayor LaGuardia today appointed Lou Gehrig, former New York Yankee star first baseman, incapacitated by a subtle form of paralysis, a city parole commissioner.

The appointment, for a term of slightly more than 10 years, carries a salary of $6,000, less a current five per cent pay cut.

The commission is a five-man board headed by the police and correction commissioners, ex-officio, with three members appointed by the mayor.

"The matter has been under advisement for over four months," the mayor said in making the announcement at the summer city hall in Queens.

"In the meantime, Mr. Gehrig has read about all the reports on parole that have been published and several works on the subject. I have had several conferences with him, and the final decision was made a few days ago.

"I believe he will not only be an able, intelligent commissioner, but that he himself will be an inspiration and a hope to many of the younger boys who have gotten into trouble."

U. S. Army to Get World's Best Rifle

New Models to Be Made at Rate of 400 Per Day; FDR Tells Plans

Washington, Oct. 11 (AP).—Soldiers of the Regular Army and National Guard will soon be supplied with the world's best shoulder rifle, the new Garand semi-automatic M-1, at the rate of 400 a day.

An $8,710,000 order for 65,000 of the weapons was given a commercial arms plant by the war department yesterday to supplement the expanding output of the Springfield, Mass., arsenal.

Twenty months hence, under present schedules, some 168,000 infantrymen will be armed with the rifle. It replaces the model 1903 Springfield.

No other army has a rifle comparing in deadliness with this weapon, ordnance experts said. The war department adopted it some two years ago but has been turning them out in comparative driblets.

The mass order went to the Winchester Repeating Arms Company, New Haven, Conn., which already was setting up machinery for an "educational" order for 500 rifles.

Gallogly Gives Self Up in Texas

Georgia Fugitive Insists He'll Never Be Returned

Dallas, Oct. 11 (AP) — Richard Gallogly, wealthy fugitive Georgia life-termer, was behind jail bars again today but held faith in "Texas justice" and insisted he would never be extradited back to a state wanting him to continue payment on a sentence for murder.

The 29-year-old member of a prominent Georgia family surrendered yesterday to Sheriff Smoot Schmid and said he deliberately fled to Dallas where "there are real men who will understand my case."

The fugitive had served 10 years of a life sentence imposed after he pleaded guilty as an accessory to the slaying of an Atlanta drug store clerk.

Five days ago, while being transferred from an Atlanta hospital to Reidsville State Prison, Gallogly escaped with his beautiful, blonde wife of a few months.

Two guards were in the front of the automobile; Gallogly, his wife and mother in the rear seat. Gallogly said he used a piece of wood he had found in his hospital room closet to jab into the back of one of the guards.

His wife accompanied him "only because I had fever and she feared for my health." Officers had not located her. Gallogly said he last saw her on a street corner when he left "to visit an attorney and surrender."

Central Merchants Re-Name Officers, Discuss Crossings, Support 'West Side'

Election of officers, a discussion of the revised plan for the eliminating of the West Shore Railroad grade crossings, and the decision to affiliate and become actively identified with the recently organized West Side of the Hudson Association were taken up Tuesday evening at the annual meeting of the Central Business Men's Association held in the Y. M. C. A.

The present officers of the association were re-elected. They are: President, Harry B. Walker; vice president, Frank L. Brown; secretary, Ralph B. Deyo; and treasurer, George A. Dittmar.

The association voted to affiliate with the West Side of the Hudson Association and to support the new organization.

The greater part of the meeting last evening was given over to a discussion of the revised plan to eliminate the grade crossings in the city. It was decided to send several of its members to the public hearing which will be held this evening at the city hall by Mayor Heiselman.

This public meeting is being held to obtain an expression of opinion from the residents of the city.

Plans for membership drive were also discussed and William A. Van Valkenburgh was named as chairman of the drive which will be staged shortly. The annual banquet of the association will be held at a date to be fixed later.

Winston Is Given Time Extension by Board of Health

Saugerties Dairyman Gets Until December 15 to Install Equipment for Pasteurization

The old question of pasteurized vs. raw milk was the subject of brief discusion at the monthly meeting of the Board of Health Tuesday night. It came up when the secretary, Mildred E. Schwab, read a communication from R. H. Winston of Saugerties Dairy Farms asking that the time for the enforcing of the recently adopted regulation specifying that certified milk must be pasteurized if sold in the city and fixing the effective date at October 15, be extended to December 15.

In order to give Mr. Winston time to make necessary changes the board amended the sanitary code extending the effective date to December 15.

Asks Sale Be Allowed

During the brief discusion of the question Mayor Heiselman, president of the board, observed that some 200 people in Kingston had been buying the raw certified milk and that while some of them wanted the milk pasteurized others wanted to continue to buy the raw milk. He suggested that people who buy certified milk presumably are intelligent people and if they believe that certified raw milk is a safe product they ought to have a chance to procure it. It also was brought out that Kingston, when the law goes into effect, will be the only city in the state, with the exception of Rochester, that prohibits the sale of certified raw milk.

Following the adoption of the amendment extending the time to December 15 the Mayor recommended that a further amendment be made to the code, before the effective date, permitting the sale in the city of either pasteurized or raw certified milk.

The monthly report of Dr. Lester E. Sanford, health officer, submitting reports of the various officers of the Board of Health, disclosed a generally satisfactory condition of affairs.

Case of 'Polio'

Of interest was the revelation that there had been one case of poliomyelitis. Dr. Sanford explained that the case was an isolated one and was that of a man who had been brought to the city from Windham, for treatment. The paralysis had affected the respiratory organs and had proved fatal. There had been no local cases, Dr. Sanford said.

Report of the registrar showed 57 births during September, of which 24 were non-resident births; deaths totaled 43 for the month, of which 17 weree non-residents.

Milk inspections for the month indicated a good showing on the part of dairies supplying the city with milk, samples analyzed by the laboratory being negative in every case as to the presence of coli and other requirements being satisfactory. There had been 18 pasteurizing plant inspections, 14 producers' farm inspections and 43 samples of milk and cream collected. This was in addition to other work done by the inspectors.

Report of the bureau of child hygiene showed that nurses and officials had been busy, with a total of 748 cases under care for health supervision. Field visits totaled 289 and there were 38 visits where no one was at home. Four dental consultations, with a

Three Students Killed, 62 Persons Hurt When School Bus Crashes

Vehicle Plunges Down 70-Foot Bank And Is Smashed to Bits Upon Railway Tracks Half Mile From West Virginia School

War, W. Va., Oct. 11 (AP).—A disabled school bus careened from a highway and plunged down a 75-foot embankment today, killing three students and injuring 62 other persons, some critically. Physicians held little hope for several others.

The big, 70-passenger machine, carrying 64 students and the driver to Big Creek High School here, smashed to bits on the Norfolk and Western railway tracks.

The dead were identified as Maxine Beavers of Bartley, 18-year-old high school senior, crushed under the wreckage and Lucille Mullins of Raysal, and seventeen-year-old Ernest Wood of Bartley, who died in hospitals at Welch.

Occurs at 8 a. m.

The accident occurred at 8 a. m. (E. S. T.) on a hill a half mile from the school, which draws students from a dozen nearby mining villages. H. E. Belcher, the driver, said the bus skidded on a curve when a spindle on the front axle broke.

The three hospitals at Welch, in the heart of the rich southwestern West Virginia coal fields, were jammed with the injured, taken there in automobiles, trucks and ambulances.

Belcher was hurt badly and may lose a foot.

"A spindle on the front axle gave way just as we started around the turn," he said. "The bus began to slip and I could not control it on the narrow road.

"The next thing we were tumbling down the hill, in a horrible jumble. When the bus struck the Norfolk and Western railway tracks, I heard screams from inside."

State education department officials at Charleston said the wreck resulted in the first deaths in school transportation in West Virginia.

Dozens of anxious parents and relatives crowded the three Welch hospitals, seeking word about the injured.

Doctors Declare Mrs. Davison Not Stable Mentally

Schirick Makes Statement in Court and Holds Charge of Contempt in Abeyance Today

Mrs. Mary McPhilomy Davison of 509 Main street, Poughkeepsie, who "picketed" the Ulster county court house last Friday and later distributed typewritten circulars on the public streets, has been declared mentally unbalanced by two physicians who examined the lady at the request of the authorities. That statement was made in supreme court this morning by Justice Harry E. Schirick before whom Mrs. Davison had been requested to appear this morning on a contempt charge.

Mrs. Davison appeared today as directed by the court in answer to a contempt of court charge but in view of the report of the two physicians who made their report to the court, the charge of contempt of court was held in abeyance and nothing further done in the matter at this time.

Plans No Action

Justice Schirick in a statement in court said that in view of the report by the two physicians and the facts as they now stood no action would be taken at the present time. In his statement which he placed upon the court record he included a copy of the contents of one of the typewritten statements which Mrs. Davison has distributed on the streets of the city.

This statement read in the court record follows:

"Please attend this trial in Judge Schirick's court at 10 a. m. He told me to take my grievances to the Appellate Division. I have been there before and here is what happened: The court appointed Judge Cochrane to hear the case. On January 16, 1939, he tried it and found no cause for action—that the lawyer was entitled to this excessive fee. He utterly ignored the fact that he stole the entire amount in the first place and only paid me this small sum after I hired another lawyer to collect and the other man caught him in the theft. Judge Schirick also has steadily ignored that. It seems to be proper ethics in this district.

"I Was Plaintiff"

"I was the plaintiff in the trial in Judge Cochrane's court but I was not notified there was to be a trial. I did not learn of any trial for six months afterward. There were no witnesses and, of course, no plaintiff. How could there be a cause for action? I went to the Appellate Court to find out how such a trial could be held in America. They informed me that in these lawyer cases the plaintiff is invited, if at all, only

Bracket Lewis Opens YMCA Drive With Prediction Democracies Will Triumph

The 95th anniversary of the founding of the Young Men's Christian Association movement and the 73rd anniversary of the institution of the Kingston Y. M. C. A. was celebrated appropriately at the third grand fall opening dinner held in the new gymnasium on Tuesday evening, which was marked by the attendance at the dinner of L. L. Osterhoudt, only living charter member of the local "Y" which was organized in 1866.

The triumph of the democracies over Hitlerism within a year was predicted by Bracket Lewis, secretary of the American Friends of Czechoslovakia, the speaker of the evening. Mr. Lewis in reply to questions from the audience at the close of his address said that the reports of Russia supplying Hitler with food and raw materials to carry on the war against England and France was not much of an assurance of help for Germany when it was recollected that Russia raising scarcely enough food to feed its own millions and that it needs all its own raw materials for its own use.

"Russia's help to Germany is purely on paper," asserted Mr. Lewis who has spent 20 years as a "Y" secretary in central Europe and is well acquainted with conditions in the war zone.

Following the serving of a turkey dinner by the Ladies' Auxiliary under the leadership of Mrs. George DuBois, president, Principal Clarence Dumm of the Kingston High School, presided and introduced Mayor C. J. Heiselman who extended the greetings of the city government to the Y. M. C. A.

Principal Dumm in introducing the mayor said that he had said

Repeal Opponent Says FDR Invoked Emengency State

President's Proclamation, He Says, Contains No Limitations; Criticises Speech

Tells of Activities

Clark Says Johnson Has Flown Over U. S. With War as Theme

Washington, Oct. 11 (AP)—Senator Clark (D.-Mo.), an opponent of the administration proposal to repeal the arms embargo, contended today that President Roosevelt had exercised emergency powers actually vested in him only when the country was at war or in imminent danger of war.

Arguing against lifting the ban on arms sales to belligerents, Clark also accused Louis Johnson, assistant secretary of war, of trying to "inflame the people as to the safety of our own shores," and said policies of the President himself had not been "reassuring."

To a listening Senate, the stocky Missourian proclaimed in emphatic tones that a careful scrutiny of the President's recent proclamation of a "limited emergency" showed that it contained no limitations.

Has No Limitations

"It is a proclamation of national emergency without any limitations whatever," he asserted. "Under it the President can exercise all of the powers of a national emergency which he can exercise without specific authority of Congress. The only limitation is the limitation voluntarily placed by the President upon himself in his discussion with newspaper men when he stated that he only intended to use a portion of those powers at this time."

The President's executive order, transferring control of the Panama Canal Zone from the governor of the canal zone to the army, Clark said, was far more important and disquieting. The canal zone code, he contended, vests authority in the President only when there is a state of war in which the United States is engaged or when war is imminent.

He said Assistant Secretary Johnson had delivered a speech "in which he sought to inflame the people as to the safety of our own shores by comparing our situation to that of Poland."

"In my judgment," Clark boomed, "no more idiotic, moronic, unpatriotic remark has ever been made by a man in a high public position."

'Flying Around'

He said this was "the same Louis Johnson who had been flying around the country in an army plane for the past several years preaching the inevitability of war and the certainty of our being drawn in."

"This is the same Louis Johnson who recently, without any apparent authority of law, set up a war resources board, stacked its personnel with Morgan-duPont controlled members, and publicly announced that as soon as we entered into war, under authority of an act which has never been passed by the Congress, the war resources board would become the war resources administration, and its chairman, the head of the steel trust, would become the virtual economic and industrial dictator—except for price-fixing which was to be handled by another similar committee. To be sure after the affiliations of the personnel of the war industries board were exposed, the President announced that they would soon conclude their labors and be disbanded but Louis Johnson is still in office and the board has not been disbanded."

Clark also denounced what he said was an effort on the part of the war department to make the nation war-minded by preparations for the draft.

"Already—when we have no quarrel with any nation in the world—with no authority of law whatever officials are going about the country training draft boards for the purpose of conscripting the youth of our land for military service.* * *I say it is a shameful thing because it can have no other purpose than inflaming the people and making them war-minded."

Charge Against Austin

At one point Clark charged that Senator Austin (R., Vt.) had "come forward frankly" with a statement that he intended to vote for embargo repeal because it would be "an effective way of helping England and France."

Austin interrupted.

"I'm sure the senator from Missouri," he said, "doesn't intend to ignore the real spirit, if not the letter, of the statement. The real spirit of that was national defense, that we will protect the in-

Lawton Opposes All Highway Tolls

Richmond, Va., Oct. 11 (AP)—E. C. Lawton of Albany, N. Y., urged the American Association of State Highway Officials today to go on record as opposed to "highway tolls of every kind and nature."

Tariff barriers on highway transportation at state lines, he said, can only lead to "misunderstanding, discontent, anger and economic warfare, if not worse."

Therefore, he told the association, he opposed all tolls so that "our citizens may enjoy without hindrance the social, economic and humanitarian benefits that are being so rapidly advanced in this nation by free and unobstructed highway transportation."

Lawton, assistant commissioner of highways in New York state, also recommended, "in view of the benefits to our citizens of a continuing tenure of office," that the principle of civil service be extended to highway engineers as widely and quickly "as it is humanly possible to do."

Russian Expansion Takes Swift, Bloodless Growth

(By The Associated Press)

Soviet Russia, by her expansion in Poland and her diplomatic maneuvers along the Baltic and Dardanelles, shows signs of resuming the forward march to territory and influence that was interrupted under the last czar.

For the first time since defeat by Japan in the war of 1904-05 reversed her 1,000-year record of growth, the Giant Bear is reaching out again.

Almost bloodlessly she has recovered much of the Polish territory that was lost in the World War, the Bolshevist revolution and the debacle of Imperial Germany.

Swiftly she has moved to regain the dominance of the North Baltic. Slowly she is working toward an understanding with Turkey on control of the Dardanelles.

From the ninth century until the early years of the 20th century, the history of Russia was mostly a story of growth, a steady reaching out in all directions.

Russia eventually stretched from the Baltic to the Pacific, a neighbor of Japan and a rival to Britain.

Star of Russia Wanes

And here the star of Russian expansion waned. The disastrous clash with Japan cost her prestige and power. For the first time she lost territory, yielding the lower half of the Island of Sakhalin off the Siberian coast of Japan, as she did strategic Port Arthur.

She withdrew from Manchuria, which had been almost a Russian dependency.

At home, the workers and peasants rose in the abortive revolt of 1904-05. There was Russian blood on the snow before the czar's winter palace in St. Petersburg, and the homes of provincial aristocrats were burned.

The sporadic outbreaks were put down, and a weakened Russia went into the World War.

Out of it came the successful Bolshevist revolution of 1917, along with the paring-away of much Russian territory.

Finland Was Duchy

Finland, a grand duchy of the Russian Empire, was declared independent in 1917; Estonia became a nation in 1918; Latvia was created; Lithuania became a republic; Poland got great reaches of White Russia and the Ukraine; and Bessarabia was joined to Rumania.

In all, Russia lost more than 15,000,000 population and more than 250,000 square miles of territory. The U. S. S. R. was left with 8,336,864 square miles. But, preoccupied with the Communist experiment, Russia apparently gave little heed to the losses.

The times have changed. With hardly more than a display of military might, she has regained much of what she lost to Poland.

While three great powers of western Europe came to grips, Russia stepped back into her old Baltic lands. Estonia, Latvia and Lithuania have hastened to hand over what concessions were asked. And now Finland has plodded unhappily to the Kremlin council chambers. A Turkish pact is under discussion.

In the east, virtual control of the people's Mongolian republic has been acquired through a mutual assistance pact. In Chinese Turkestan the story is said to be much the same.

Rusia is reaching out again.

Osborne Requests Help on Accidents In Hunting Season

All up-state district attorneys were requested yesterday by State Conservation Commissioner Lithgow Osborne to investigate all fall hunting accidents and determine whether there may be any degree of criminal negligence involved.

He called attention to the fact that the state departments, including his own, had not power to prosecute cases involving criminal negligence but that this power was vested with the local district attorneys.

Mr. Osborne said that if hunters realized more fully that they were liable to criminal prosecution in the event they killed or injured another hunter or human being while hunting, that they would be more careful in the field and that the number of preventable accidents would decrease.

A letter has been sent to all county prosecutors in the up-state areas seeking the cooperation of all district attorneys and asking for their complete investigation of all hunting accidents.

Receiver Is Named For Napanoch Club

New York, Oct. 10 (Special)—On the motion of creditors, Federal Judge Henry W. Goddard appointed George Herbert temporary receiver here today of the assets of the Napanoch Operating Corp., which operates the Napanoch Country Club, an adult camp, at Napanoch. Mr. Herbert is required to file bond of $1,000.

An involuntary petition was filed against the corporation last week. Today's application, made in United States District Court, revealed that the assets are about $3,000.

The naming of the receiver at this time is urgent, creditors stated to the court, to prevent the sale of the assets, scheduled for tomorrow, by an assignee for the benefit of some of the creditors.

Judge Dismisses Suit Against City

Jurors not engaged on the case on trial were excused today by Justice Schirick until Monday morning at 10 o'clock.

The negligence action brought by Raymond E. Bietry of Branch against the City of New York and William Bartels, former board of water supply police officer, was continued. The action arises out of a collision between a city-owned car operated by Bartels and the car of Bietry. The plaintiff seeks property damages and also damages for personal injuries. The City of New York brings a counter claim for damages to the city-owned car.

Before recess Tuesday counsel for the City of New York moved to dismiss the complaint as against the city on the grounds that there could be no action against the city. At the opening of the court Justice Schirick dismissed the complaint as against the City of New York and the trial was continued as against Bartels, Justice Schirick reserving decision on a motion to dismiss the complaint against him.

The counter claim brought by the City of New York against the plaintiff was also continued although the court held no action could be maintained by the plaintiff against the city under provisions of the New York city charter. Henry R. Bright and John J. Egan appear for the city and N. LeVan Haver for the plaintiff.

Germany Says Daladier, Hitler Have Same Desires

By LOUIS P. LOCHNER

Berlin, Oct. 11 (AP)—Authorized German sources said today that official Germany sees no conflict between the war aims expressed by Premier Daladier yesterday—security, defense of his country, guarantees for European peace—provided those are France's real war aims—and the peace proposals of Reichsfuehrer Hitler's Reichstag speech.

The German government apparently is willing to regard the French premier's strictures on leading German personalities as intended for home consumption. Likewise his presentation of German aims are forgiven him, although sharply rejected by the German viewpoint, these sources said, provided his basic demands are for security and guarantees.

(Daladier said Britain and France would "continue to fight" until they obtained definite guarantees of security and "lasting peace in Europe.")

Hold Over Poilu Doubted

German sources do not think that Daladier can prevail on the French poilu to venture out from his Maginot Line and attack Germany if the proclaimed French war aims are defense and security.

One trouble (in German eyes) about Daladier's speech, however, these authorizes sources pointed out, is France's alliance with Britain. (British and French commentators say one purpose of Hitler's speeches and other official German statements is to drive a wedge between the British-French allies.)

While Germany can decide for herself neither France nor Britain can act without the other partner. Hence official Germany can not take a final stand on the Daladier speech until Prime Minister Chamberlain of Britian has been heard. (He is to make his weekly war report in the House of Commons tomorrow.)

The authorized sources find Daladier much vaguer than Hitler, who addressed the Reichstag last Friday and spoke again in Berlin yesterday, but they believe considerations of domestic policy may have been responsible.

(Hitler said definitely that the Poland established by the Versailles treaty would not be restored; Daladier did not specifically demand the restoration of Poland but he countered Hitler's declaration that only Germany and Russia would decide Poland's future with the statement that the fate of Poland "interests also and first of all the Poles.")

Same Objectives

If Daladier says he does not want six months hence to have new unrest, the authorized German sources insist, Germany replies that she too wants an end to interfering with Germany.

Official Germany, they continue, highly resents being doubted all the time; hence she insists that aspersions on her intentions must cease as a part of the pacification process of Europe.

"All we did was liquidate Versailles," one informed source said. "We have again and again given binding declarations regarding our western boundaries. The world should at last recognize this. Daladier knows that that is true."

Summing up, one spokesman said that the Daladier speech marks progress. Germany, through her fuehrer, has reiterated—from a feeling of strength rather than from weakness—the Reich's readiness for peace and again disavowed aggressive intentions. Hence Daladier's demand for security merely voices what Germany has been clamoring for for years.

Krivitsky Says 35,000 Men Slain

Washington, Oct. 11 (AP)—General Walter G. Krivitsky, who said he was in the Soviet military intelligence for 17 years, told the Dies committee today that the 1936-37 purge in Russia resulted in the deaths of 35,000 members of the Red army officers' corps.

In addition, Krivitsky related to the House committee investigating un-American activities that Josef Stalin sent from 300,000 to 400,000 persons to imprisonment or exile and "millions of the population to concentration camps."

Krivitsky, a small slight man of 40 with greying brown hair and hazel eyes, said that he broke with Stalin over the purge.

His Own Peanuts

Lewis Sharp, genial superintendent of the city hall, has made plans to sit at his fireside the coming winter evenings and enjoy hot roasted peanuts of his own raising. Mr. Sharp his just completed the harvesting of a crop of fine Italian peanuts from his garden in the rear of his home on Downs street. Last summer he decided to plant part of his ground in peanuts as an experiment. The experiment has proven so successful that next year he plans to grow the crop on a more extensive scale.

Election Probe Brought to End

Albany, N. Y., Oct. 11 (AP)—The 11-months' investigation into election law violations in Albany county ended today with disposition of the nine remaining cases.

Governor Lehman ordered a special term of Supreme Court to consider the alleged violations as the result of Manhattan District Attorney Thomas E. Dewey's charges in the campaign last fall. Indictments totaled 224, and guilty pleas 165.

Eight of the final nine men who pleaded guilty to voting after conviction for felonies were given suspended sentences by Supreme Court Justice John MacCrate with the warning "they hang over your heads—watch your step in the future." The ninth pleaded guilty to double registration and was sentenced to six months in Albany county jail.

In Wawarsing Henry Decker of Kerhonkson has declined the nomination of the Democratic party as assessor and Arthur Georry of Kerhonkson has been designated for that office and Mr. Decker has been appointed by the committee on vacancies for the position of justice of the peace.

The independent ticket in town of Lloyd which named Herbert Litts for town superintendent of highways and Jacob L Busick for assessor for two years, has been ruled void by the Board of Elections The Board of Elections ruled that the ticket was not in order in that a number of signers on the petition had failed to give date, election district and residence and the town in which they resided and also on the further grounds that the petition was not verified by the signers or authenticated by a witness as provided in the election law.

Parent-Teacher Ass'n

School No. 8

A regular meeting of the Parent-Teacher Association of School No. 8 was held Monday to observe Father's Night. There was a good attendance of fathers, mothers and friends. After a short business meeting a program was enjoyed.

Clarence Rowland, general manager of James S. Fuller, Inc., and an active member of the Board of Education gave an interesting talk on "Learning to Earn." Mr. Rowland pointed out that a child will learn to earn in order to get something desired. With the great change of time and all the machinery there are still methods of earning for the young boy or girl. Mr. Rowland enumerated some of the methods such as selling papers and caring for children. In the schools, the children should be taught what they will practice in life so they will be better fitted when they step out into the world. Mr. Rowland concluded by saying that a good name is better than great riches.

Superintendent of Schools Arthur Laidlaw brought an inspiring message on those having responsibilities of the child. He said that they are first with the parent and then with the vast educational system to train him to compete and become a better citizen. Mr. Laidlaw stated that there are over 30 million children in schools today. The schools are faced with the problem of training to do and training to be.

Two selections were rendered by Donald Weeks, baritone, accompanied by Elizabeth Heaps.

Lieut. Commander Chauncey Davis of the United States Naval Reserve showed colored movies of the various parts of his travels throughout the United States.

The attendance banners were won by the pupils of Miss Gerber, Miss Finn and Miss Elmendorf.

Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Hummel and Mr. and Mrs. John Kreuger, hosts for the meeting, served refreshments during the social hour.

Young Al Hits Trail

New York, Oct. 11 (AP)—A name famous in New York politics—Alfred E. Smith—will be back on the ballots next month. This time, however, it will be Al Smith, Jr., 38, eldest son of the "Happy Warrior," seeking election to the city council. Unlike his father, long the candidate of Tammany Hall, the regular Democratic organization, young Al described himself as "independent Democratic" in his nominating petition, signed by 4,300 voters. Al, Sr., said he planned to campaign in his son's behalf. "You're starting on your own political career," the former governor told him, smilingly. "If you achieve any part of the success I did, you'll keep the name alive."

The board of education decrees the Avon High School football team can not engage in night games, either home or away.

MEN LIKE GIRLS WITH "OOMPH"

Years ago it was the "it" girl—last year the "glamor" girl and today it's the girl with "oomph"—and pep who attracts men and has all the dates, fun and success in life. Remember no man likes a dull, cross, nervous woman!

Perhaps all you need is a good "woman's" tonic If so, try famous Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. Let it help lessen female functional distress, calm moody nerves and give you glorious new energy and pep by promoting better digestion and assimilation of your food—by helping build up your physical resistance.

Recent medical tests have proved Pinkham's Compound to be one of the most effective "woman's" tonics. WELL WORTH TRYING.

The Creeping Man

by Frances Shelley Wees

YESTERDAY: Tuck, Michael's sprightly wife, begins to "wonder" why they have come to the University. Snoopy Miss Lissey, Latin teacher and next-door neighbor, has aroused Tuck's suspicions.

Chapter Four

The Dew And The Sun

MICHAEL threw back his head and laughed.

She paid no attention. "Michael," she said soberly, "why shouldn't she want the son of the District Attorney to live out here?"

"My darling," said Michael, "I think you had it right the first time when you brought up that little word 'imagination.' There's no reason on earth why my being the son of the District Attorney would make any difference. You just didn't like her—which I can understand—and she didn't like you, which I can also understand. Your hair is too much like melted sunlight, and you have too many dimples, and you're altogether too pretty for anything, Tuck. And then, there's Bunny Bunny is also a very nice looking girl, although, of course, not in your class. And as I know Miss Alix Lissey, the spectacle of feminine beauty always did go to her head"

"You're such a sweet thing, Michael," his wife told him, "and very poetic. You've been reading things, I'm afraid."

"And you?"

"No, I haven't Don't be mean, Michael. I'm perfectly sure, just as sure as I'm sitting here, that she's angry we're here. And I want to know why. I was just wondering if there wouldn't be some reason for asking your father quite pointedly just why he wanted us to come out here and live. I've got a queer feeling"

"What! Again?"

"Umhm. I smell mystery"

Michael regarded her thoughtfully. "Tuck, actually, has nothing at all happened except this call from Miss Lissey, to put you into this mood?"

"Nothing at all That is . . . not much."

"How much?"

"Well . . . it was while I was talking to Miss Lissey in the living room. Charlotte Jean came to the kitchen door and said someone wanted to see me . . . and I excused myself and went out Charlotte Jean, all fluttery, said there was a man in the study A young man. I went through the dining room, and into the study, and there he was, a tall, young, nice looking chap with sullen blue eyes and dark wavy hair and nice clothes . . . and he was standing right close beside the front of the big desk . . . and Michael, I'm positive he straightened up when I went in and his face was all red"

"He'd probably been tying his shoe. What did he want?"

"I don't know what he wanted, but I know what he said he wanted. He said his name was Duncan Murchison, and that he'd lived here in this house a month ago, and he'd packed up rather hurriedly and he wondered if I'd found a book of his around the house anywhere—'The Outlines of Chemistry.' He was very nice but most embarrassed And I said no, I was positive I hadn't seen it, so he went away."

"And?"

"Inquisitive'

"MICHAEL, don't you see? He knew perfectly well he hadn't left a book here He just wanted to get into the study."

"But why for the love of mud?"

"Michael Bruce Forrester, don't you realize that big desk was here when we came? I'm sure there was something left in it . . . or something he was afraid he'd left in it . . . and he was determined to get it"

"Why didn't he say so plainly and ask for permission to look for it?"

"That's just it. Why didn't he? You tell me"

"Tuck, you should have been a detective I never saw such a suspicious inquisitive nose as yours is"

"You shouldn't muddle your sentences so," she answered absently.

"This sudden urge to housecleaning tomorrow," he said suddenly "Were you thinking of taking the study to pieces, bit by bit, to see what's concealed in it?"

"I don't really expect to find much, I've already," she explained naively, "taken all the drawers out of the big desk, and measured it and looked for papers, or secret drawers There wasn't a thing except a couple of pencils and some torn bits of newspaper. I was most disappointed."

"But, my love, what could be there?"

"Of course I an't tell you that," she said soberly Michael suppressed a grin "Michael—did your father say who lived here last? Was it really this Duncan Murchison? Who is he? Is he married?"

Michael considered "Why didn't you ask your neighborly friend? She'd have been glad to tell you, wouldn't she?"

"I don't doubt it a bit. But she was so generally snippy that I simply wouldn't ask her anything, even when I was dying to know The only question I did ask her was as catty as I could make it. She had said, you see, that campus families always went away between terms, as if it were a dreadful social error not to. So I asked her flatly why she hadn't gone away, and actually, Michael, she turned purple, and she mumbled and didn't answer my question. Why didn't she go?"

"Maybe she's teaching at night school. I know McBain and Deane are—they're in those two houses on the west side of the Horseshoe."

"I bet she isn't. I bet she is just sticking around."

"Listen, wife of my bosom. There comes Bunny, back from her walk. Let's go and meet her. I am very fond of Bunny, but there is an ulterior motive in my suggestion. Do you see the gentleman with the wheelbarrow, coming up the path in front of her? That is Jymes 'iggins, gardener. I am acquainted with him. He was a fixture here even in the days of my youth. We will stroll along until his barrow stops us, and then we will proceed to ask him questions. I venture to say your smell of mystery will dissipate as the dew on morning meadows fleeth before the coming of the sun."

"We will," said Tuck, rising. "But it doesn't, Michael."

"What doesn't?"

"The dew," she said, as she started for the gate. "It fleeth after the coming of the sun."

Higgins Hedges

"TUCK," said Michae a few minutes later, "allow me to present Mr. Higgins. Mr. Higgins, my wife."

The little man behind the barrow managed a bow which was about half between a duck and a curtsey. He wiped his hands nervously on his khaki breeks and muttered "'Ow d'ye do, Mrs Forrester, I'm sure," while a slow wave of scarlet mounted up the back of his neck and painted his ears richly.

"How do you do, Mr. Higgins?" Tuck smiled at him warmly, and he gulped.

"And the third member of our household," said Michael in the Grand Manner, as Bunny reached them, "Miss Temple, Mr. Higgins."

He ducked again, and now his hair was flax-white against the deep crimson of his skin. Bunny acknowledged the introduction in her low deep voice. "I've met Mr. Higgins already," she said. "Out on the river bank You were getting leaf mold, weren't you?" she inquired.

"Yes, Miss," he replied, and coughed behind his hand.

"It's lovely out there," Bunny went on, turning to Tuck. "You must come out with me tomorrow. There's a place where you can sit on the edge of the bank and look right out across the river, just at the bend It's miles wide"

Higgins wrinkled his brow Michael spoke

"I wouldn't advise you to sit there, Bunny. Unless you want a sudden bath That bank looks safe, but it crumbles Doesn't it, Jim?"

"Yes, Mr. Forrester, that it does."

"We lost a good bonfire that way years ago," Michael went on. "Built it too close to the edge and it slid in, edge and all. Of course . . ." he stopped, a reminiscent look in his eyes.

Higgins obviously followed his train of thought. "They ain't what they was in yore time, Mr. Forrester."

"No," Michael assented hastily, "all the good things of life must pass, Jim. We must be resigned"

"Hm," Bunny said dryly. Her gray eyes danced.

"By the way, Jim," Michael broke in quickly before she could speak, "whose house are we occupying?"

Jim blinked his pale little eyes rapidly. "Beggin' yer pardon, sir?"

"Who so kindly went away and left us a house?"

Jim's throat seemed to trouble him He cleared it, coughed rubbed it and coughed again "Why—you mean—well, the 'ouse belongs to the University, sir"

Tuck drew a sudden deep breath. "Yes, of course," Michael answered. "But who lived here just before us?"

"Well," said Jim, and swallowed "It was the . . . the Murchisons, sir."

"Oh. Don't know them. What department did he lecture in, Jim?"

There was something wrong with the toe of Jim's shoe He shuffled his feet together. "I don't rightly know Mr Forrester" he said finally, "some o' the new fangled stuff."

"Just a young fellow, was he? Unmarried?"

Higgins looked up quickly. "Oh, no," he replied. "That's 'is brother you're thinkin' of."

"Didn't he live here too?" Tuck asked.

Jim's eyes darted to her face. "Yes"

"Where are they now?"

"They're — well, Mrs. Murchison—she's over at Devoes, and young Mr Murchinson's livin' in the residence like."

"And Dr. Murchinson himself?" Michael suggested. Tuck looked at him sharply but made no comment.

Trifles

The big men of this country are prepared to do big things entrusted to them because they made a habit of doing little things exceedingly well as they journeyed upward. It is only the little man who thinks that the little things in life don't count

Girl (murmuring, as she gazed rapturously into the eyes of the editor)—How glorious it is to be engaged in a purely intellectual occupation Your own mental faculties for tools, and the whole universe for a workshop. Now tell me, what do you find the most difficult thing connected with your noble profession?

Editor—Paying the staff

Amazing Arithmetic—Try It

Here's a bit of mathematics that is mystifying: Take the number of your house and double it. Add 5. Then multiply by 50. Now add your age to this total. Next add the number of days in a year (365). From the total subtract 615. The last two figures will be your age and the others will be your house number.

October

As I wander o'er the hillside
On this bright October day
And behold the Autumn beauty
That is spread along my way

How my heart o'erflows with praises
To the Lord who made the earth.
Trees are clothed in matchless beauty
Richer far than kingly worth.

Shades and hues so finely blended
Vain for humans to describe
Bring to earth a glimpse of Heaven
And its joys in us imbibe.

CHARLOTTE E. ECKERT.

Englishman—With all due deference, my boy, I really think our English custom at the telephone is better than saying "Hello," as you do

American—What do you say in England?

Englishman—We say, "Are you there?" Then of course, if you're not there, there is no use in going on with the conversation.

Most of us poor mortals look at money objectively—it is the wherewithal for needs and wants It were better that we looked at it subjectively, as the measure of our own capacity to produce and earn as our contribution to progress If we did this, it might awaken our initiative, sumulate our energy, increase our productiveness and earning power. After all, wages and salary reflect nothing more or less than our value to those who use us.

The waiter placed the diner's meat course in front of him, and was about to depart when the customer gave a cry of astonishment:

Diner—What's the meaning of this? Yesterday you gave me a portion twice as large as this.

Waiter (hunching his shoulders)—Where did you sit yesterday?

Diner (pointing to a table near the only window in the small restaurant)—Over there.

Waiter (exclaiming earnestly)—Ah, that accounts for it! We always give people large portions who sit by the window. It's a good advertisement.

Look for the Silver Lining

A famous American orator once shouted: "Look up, not down!" America needs that kind of a message today. If we would lift our eyes and look up into the skies we would find that many of the clouds have silver linings.

The law of the human mind is such that when we look down we think down. When we expect to fail we attract failure. When we concentrate on the obstacles and handicaps in our path mole-hills become mountains.

Look for the best, expect the best and you will transform your life with a red radiance America hasn't scratched the surface of its possibilities. We are surrounded by opportunities. Take a tip from F. A. Breck and look for the silver lining:

If there's a remedy for trouble,
Just apply it;
If you fret, your trials double—
Then keep quiet,
There's no reason for repining.
Trouble is not helped by whining;
If there is a silver lining,
Haste to spy it!

Stamps In The News

How will the war affect stamp prices?

What expectation there is of a real boom is based partly on the theory that the war of 1939 will bring, as did the war of 1914, many thousands of new collectors into the fold Interest will spread, especially if warring governments prepare occupation, charity, war tax, and other issues in considerable numbers.

Another thing is this: Many persons of wealth may put their money in stamps, because rare stamps are known to be secure investments.

On the other hand, many collectors of World war days bought and paid for war issues at prices that fell after the war.

The explanation is that at the time the stamps were issued little authentic information was available as to the stocks printed. High prices resulted Stamps that were thought to be rare proved relatively abundant.

In recent years, more and more governments have become conscious of the revenues available to them from eager stamp collectors

There will, accordingly, probably be many war zone issues, since governments at war will tap all possible sources of revenue. The moral for American philatelists is clear: Don't let Europe fool you about what its stamps are worth.

This is a photograph of $50,000. The stamp above has been insured for that amount. It is the 2-cent 1862 "Black Jack" with the "z" grill of 15 points by 18 points, instead of the present known "z" grill of 13 or 14 by 17 or 18.

The grills are embossed rows of small pyramids. The object, at the time this stamp was used, was to prevent the possible second use of the stamp, by breaking the fiber of the paper so that the cancelling ink would soak through.

It cost Allegany county one dollar for every vote cast in the recent primary, election Commissioner Harry Keller of Cuba estimates. There was only one contest, membership on the Republican county committee from the town of Rushford.

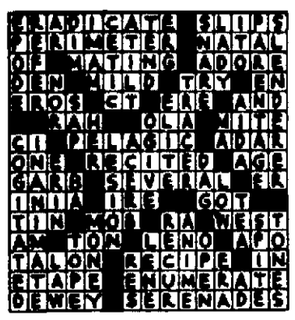
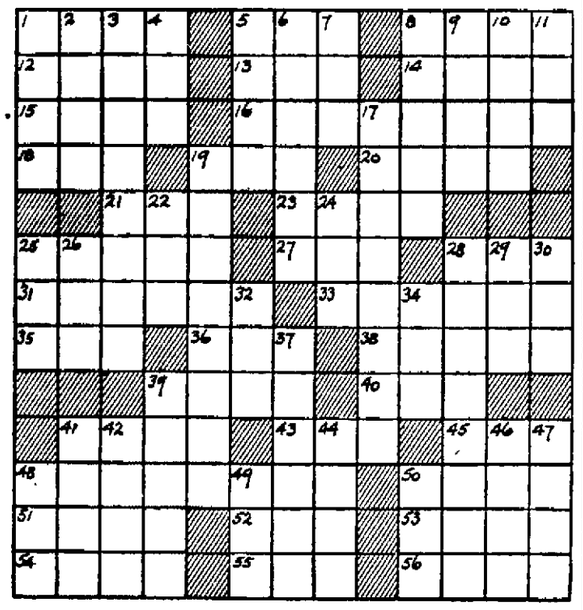
Solution of Yesterday's Puzzle





When tots in Cape Vincent, N. Y., get sore, they do something about it. Three smashed windows, a broken book case, torn volumes and spilled ink, not to mention several minor evidences of their rage, were left behind as two five-year-old boys expressed dissatisfaction at their first week of school.

Flashes of Life Sketched in Brief

New Game

Asheville, N. C.—Police Court Judge Sam H. Cathey has ruled it is legal to play cards for drinks and smells—just so the drinks and smells aren't on the table.

In this game the winner gets a drink of liquor on each winning hand and the loser only a sniff at the bottle.

The judge's decision freed four men of gambling charges.

Birmingham, Ala.—A Leeds, Ala., housewife sought $5,000 damages for wounds she said were inflicted by a rooster.

The woman's complaint, filed in Jefferson Circuit Court, alleged she was "spurred and flogged" by a rooster running at large in a grocery store, although storeoperators "had reason to know" the bird was "violent and dangerous."

Gentlemen, to Steve!

Chicago—Directors of the exclusive Union League Club gave a dinner in honor of Steve Kelly, ruddy-cheeked, gray-haired, of indefinite age and their bartender for 50 years.

Steve has served everything from watermelon soaked in champagne to beer, has mixed drinks for Presidents Harrison, McKinley, Taft and Teddy Roosevelt but, he said, has never touched a drop himself.

New York—Babies in perambulators, hitherto barred from the New York World's Fair, will be admitted free beginning next Monday.

There is a diaper service on the grounds.

Asheville, N. C.—Golfers who want to improve their game and cut down on exercise can take a tip from Lyman Beecher.

Beecher travels from green to green on a two-caddy-drawn rubber tire "ricksha" which has a rumble seat for clubs. His scores are lower and he finishes 18 holes fresh as a daisy.

Des Moines, Ia.—Pitcher Bob Feller now has a .500 batting average in traffic court here.

Bob today was found innocent of illegal parking. A witness said a garage man had parked the car in a restricted area. The Cleveland pitcher was not in court.

Last spring Feller was fined $100 on a reckless driving charge.

"Give!"

says Government and its "TAKE" exceeds the total income of the Western half of the United States—and the end is not yet.

IN 1938, the income of the darkened area of this map was $17,696,000,000.

But in 1938, Government, Federal, state and local, spent about $18,000,000,000.

That's more than the entire West realized from its gigantic output of gold, silver, copper, wheat, corn, milk, cheese, potatoes, beef, sugar, coal, lumber and all other products of its year's work.

It equals nearly 30 cents of every dollar the nation's producers earned in 1938—the biggest percentage of our income for government on record.

And what did it buy?

Well, for one thing it bought relief from distress for the needy. Everybody agrees to the righteness of doing that. But it will surprise many to learn that only one dollar out of six was spent for relief.

Most of the other increases in spending go for innovations in government service.

The last few years have seen the creation of 67 new Federal boards, commissions, administrations and authorities, agencies to supervise every activity of business from peanut-vending to steel production. Likewise, open and indirect competition with all business.

The question is not whether these are desirable government functions.

The question is whether the country wants expansion of government, which must be paid for by increased taxes—

Or wants expansion of business, which pays in jobs and wages.

For the increased money that now goes into Government spending is the money that formerly went into new and improved products, new and enlarged factories, bigger payrolls and dividends. There isn't enough in the earned dollar to go both ways.

Business—the production and distribution of goods—is the only thing that can create new wealth.

Lewis Predicts Liberty Will Win

before and would say again that he was proud to live in a city whose mayor was actively interested in young people.

The mayor complimented the Y. M. C. A. on its 95th anniversary as an institution known throughout the world, and also complimented the local "Y" on celebrating this year its 73rd anniversary. The mayor said that he was greatly interested in reading the history of the Y. M. C. A. that was in The Freeman on Saturday which showed that the local association had been closely identified with the history of Kingston.

Mayor Heiselman called attention to the fact that the only living member of the "Y" when it was organized in 1866 was present at the dinner, and was still active. He said that it was men like L. L. Osterhoudt who had made possible the progress not only of the "Y" but of the city. "If we had more citizens like Mr. Osterhoudt," said the mayor, "we would go some place. Kingston was proud of its Y. M. C. A."

R. H. Broughton, chairman of the membership committee, spoke briefly of plans his committee was making to increase the membership of the association. It was planned to hold a fellowship dinner with the new members on October 20, he said, at which time they would become acquainted with the other members of the association and also with its varied program of activities.

Traces History of "Y"

Mr. Lewis, the principal speaker of the evening, traced briefly the early history of the association which was founded 95 years ago when George Williams gathered together a group of other young men in a room in a house in London, England. From that early beginning the "Y" movement had spread until at the present time there was an association in nearly every country in the world.

The "Y" was a place where the youth could go for self expression. It was the work of the "Y" to turn out young men trained in leadership. No organization that did not have the cooperation of its members for the advancement of community interests was worth while. No organization reached its maturity unless it went outside its own building to do something worthwhile for the city in which it was located.

This was work that the Y. M. C. A. had been doing for 95 years.

"We who are sitting here tonight can hardly realize that the world has again gone to war," he said. "In 20 short years we seem to have forgotten the lessons of the World War."

The present war, he said, was not the war of isms that we had thought it was for only recently two isms suddenly united, and today they are attacking the democratic governments of Europe.

"How can America keep clear and yet not help the isms to defeat democracy? That is the problem we have to solve, he said, "but I am afraid we will not solve it and our children and their children will be endeavoring to solve that problem in the years to come.

Mr. Lewis said that he had spent considerable time in Poland and was well acquainted with the cities that now lie in ruins. What we read in the newspapers, he said, was but a tenth of the whole story.

Europe, he said, is not jeopardizing its civilization in this war. It is a war to save Europe from barbarism.

Mr. Lewis said that when he came back to this country nine years ago it was to find it facing tremendous problems of its own. Among the problems that had to be solved here was defending private property and savings and to provide a living for all our peoples.

The problems that confronted the country at large was a challenge to the Y. M. C. A. to work with the youth.

Following Mr. Lewis's address he answered several questions addressed to him from the floor. In response to a question by Mr. Dumm he believed that Germany was weaker today than it was in 1914.

Mr. Lewis believed that the democracies would conquer in the present conflict and that the war would not last much longer than a year.

Russia, he said, had no huge supplies of food and raw materials to supply Germany. In fact Russia raised scarcely enough food to supply its own teeming millions. The oil in Russia is of a poor quality, and its wheat is not the best.

"I think that the promise of Russia to help Germany with food and supplies is just plain hokum," declared Mr. Lewis.

The banquet was opened with the invocation pronounced by the Rev. D. Linton Doherty, pastor of the Rondout Presbyterian Church, who also pronounced the benediction at the close.

Red Cross Workers Making Garments For War Victims

The work of making garments and knitting for the unfortunate war victims in foreign countries will be continued by Ulster County Chapter, Red Cross, and more volunteers to swell the ranks of local workers are needed.

Two rooms in the municipal auditorium have been given to the chapter for this work and factories of the city are cooperating by cutting the garments. Several sewing machines have also been loaned.

On Tuesday and Thursday of each week, Mrs. Edward Loughran is chairman and Mrs. Charles Mullen is co-chairman of a group of workers, who make 10-year-old girls' dressed.

Among the ladies of St. Mary's Church who have engaged in this work are Miss Theresa Leach, Mrs. John Britt, Mrs. Thomas Leach, Mrs. Julia Murphy, Mrs. Edward Arnold, Miss Frances Jordan, Mrs. Timothy Donovan, Miss Katherine Shepard, Mrs. John O'Rourke, Mrs. John Schwenk, Mrs. William Taumberger, Mrs. John Hyland, Mrs. Peter Camp, Mrs. John Herrick and Mrs. James T. O'Reilly.

It is expected that the number of workers who are engaged in this humanitarian effort will be greatly increased.

Speakers Urge Italian Unity

Unity among Italians was urged Tuesday evening by those who spoke at the meeting of the Italian-American Club, meeting in the Byrne building. Those who addressed the club were Special City Judge Raymond Mino, Attorney Guido Napoletano, Attorney Edward Brancati and Alderman Walter Donnarumma.

The meeting last evening, according to President Jasper Martatto, was in the form of a "revival" and a general meeting will be held on Thursday, October 19, when it is expected that many new members will be present as a membership drive will be staged by the club before the general meeting.

Italians as a group have never been properly recognized, declared Alderman Donnarumma, and he urged that a spirit of cooperation and unity among Italians be developed so that they might obtain the recognition to which they were entitled in this country. He pointed out that the Italian minorities in city, county and nation were large enough to command respect from other groups, but that they should never yield themselves to un-American groups or institutions. In closing he urged the club to join in fitting tribute on October 12, to Columbus, one of the greatest of the Italians.

Attorney Napoletano said that there was a vital need for such an organization as the American-Italian Club, and failure of previous groups to attain a permanent basis should not affect the future of the present organization. He pointed to the eminince obtained by such men as Mayor LaGuardia of New York city, Charles Poletti, Angelo Rossi, Ferdinand Pecora and many others, and held that their lives should be examples to the Italian youth of today.

Judge Mino and Attorney Brancati urged the members of the club to give their officers full cooperation and work with them for the success of the organization.

Make Matching Chairs With Trim Slip Covers

Pair Lend Balance to Room

Give your living-room new fireside interest with a pair of chairs—dressed up in richly patterned slip covers you can make yourself.

If your rug is blue, choose a deep mulberry flowered chintz.

Or you could have rayon damask in tawny gold with a self-colored pattern.

You make these slip covers by the simple pin-on method. First remove cushions. Beginning at the top of back, smooth material down over seat. Pin every three inches, as shown in picture. Leave four-inch tuck-in between seat and back—to ease strain. Cut 1½ inches outside pins to allow for seams.

In the same way, fit and cut arms, aprons, sides, and back. Paper patterns will help you fit fronts of arms and cushions exactly.

Now you baste, try on and fit, and remove for final stitching. The ruffled flounce you add last of all.

Step-by-step directions and easy-to-follow diagrams for all kinds of slip covers are given in our 32-page booklet. Tells how to estimate material, cut, finish and trim. Suggests smart color schemes.

Send 10c in coin for your copy of HOW TO MAKE SLIP COVERS to Kingston Daily Freeman, Home Service, 635 Sixth avenue, New York, N. Y. Be sure to write plainly your NAME, ADDRESS, and the NAME of booklet.

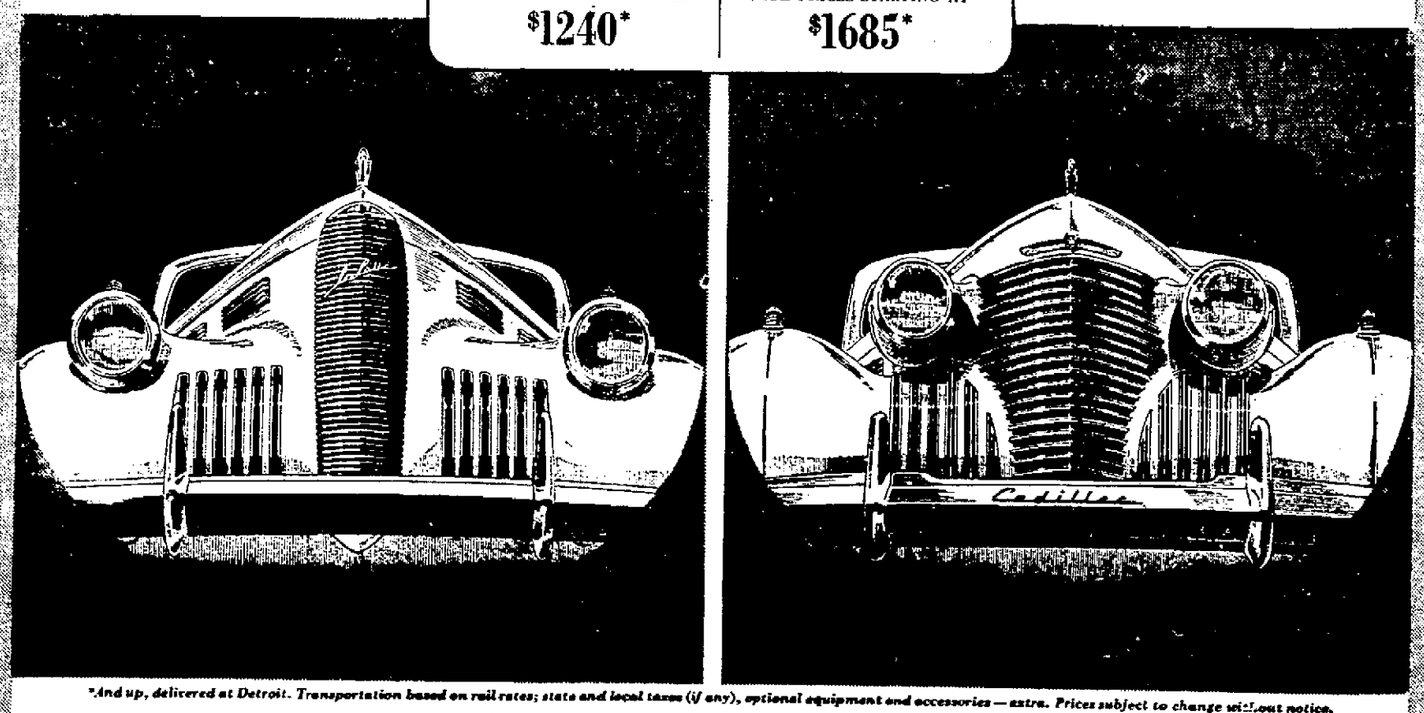
CADILLAC AND LA SALLE

LEAD THE WAY TO PROGRESS!

TWO NEW LASALLES WITH PRICES STARTING AT $1240*

FIVE NEW CADILLACS WITH PRICES STARTING AT $1685*



*And up, delivered at Detroit. Transportation based on rail rates; state and local taxes (if any), optional equipment and accessories—extra. Prices subject to change without notice.

TODAY, WE OPEN our doors for the first showing of the 1940 Cadillacs and LaSalles—and you are cordially invited to attend. ¶ You will find it decidedly worthwhile to do so, because here you will see everything that's fine in motoring, and everything that's new for 1940. ¶ You'll see two LaSalles—one entirely new—larger, more powerful, more economical, and unapproached for beauty. ¶ You'll see a new Cadillac—one of the very finest cars Cadillac has ever built, yet the lowest-priced Cadillac for 1940. ¶ You'll see four Cadillac-Fleetwoods—including the Sixty Special and a completely new, lower-priced Fleetwood—which represent the highest point yet reached in luxury, comfort, safety, and performance. ¶ You'll see, in short, the leader in every price-group above a thousand dollars, because these seven new cars give Cadillac complete dominance of the quality field. ¶ This brief picture of the 1940 Cadillacs and LaSalles merely suggests the tremendous progress these cars represent. It leaves out entirely any discussion of the new ride, the new ease of control, and of the mighty new Cadillac V-8 engines which power them all. It does so deliberately, because only a look and a ride can demonstrate the greatness of these cars. ¶ Why not make a personal investigation—today?

Lifting of Hat by Men Traced to Early Custom

Why do men lift their hats to women? It is believed that the custom of uncovering the head as a mode of salutation originated in the military practices of the ancients.

In the days when men wore heavy armor a man would take off his helmet or headgear to show that he was not afraid to stand with head uncovered in the presence of another; it was an act expressive of confidence. Later it became customary to remove the headgear to show deference to a superior or as a mark of respect to a person of distinction, says the Rocky Mountain Herald. It was only a step further to lift the headdress as an act of politeness or gallantry to women and thus raising the hat gradually became a general method of greeting women.

The practice retains some of its earlier significance and many people still take off their hats to salute distinguished persons of either sex, and respect for the national flag is shown in same manner. Members of the Society of Friends do not believe in raising the hat. George Fox, the founder of the society, taught that a Christian should submit to persecution and even face death itself rather than touch his hat to the greatest of mankind, whether male or female.

When asked to produce Scriptural authority for his dogma on this subject, Fox cited the Biblical passage in which it is asserted that Shadrach, Mashach and Abednego were thrown into fiery furnace with their hats on. He also pointed out that the Turks never show their bare heads to their superiors and said that they should be permitted to surpass Christians in virtue.

Expert Advises Against Using Restaurant Lingo

John B. O'Meara, of Chicago, an expert on the proper and improper manner of restaurant service, has given waiters and waitresses tips on ways to get ahead in their business. Some pointers:

If a man orders milk toast the waitress should not yell: "Stew for a stiff."

Two poached eggs on toast should not be called "Adam and Eve on a raft," nor should frankfurters and sauerkraut be referred to as "dogs in the grass."

Headwaiters should never employ the old-fashioned trick of speeding up service by shouting: "Get a move on, you soup jockeys."

Waitresses should not paint their fingernails. It takes a customer's mind off his food. The advice is repeated for wearing engagement rings.

Both a spoon and fork should be served with a fruit cocktail, despite Emily Post's approval of the former, because when a customer prefers to eat with a fork he doesn't want to be bothered with telling the waiter about it.

The waiter or waitress should never place a napkin on the patron's lap. That's being too familiar.

The worst blunder O'Meara remembered was committed by a waitress who brought a customer a rare steak and remarked:

"I don't see how you can eat that stuff."

Carl P. Dietz of Milwaukee has collected 400 typewriters, dating from earliest models to those of today. One has a keyboard based on that of a piano.

Townsendites Will Meet At Mechanics' Hall

The regular meeting of Kingston Townsend Club No. 1, will be held this evening at 8 o'clock at Mechanics' Hall. The public is invited. Visitors are expected from Newburgh and Walden.

Last evening at a Townsend rally at Walden, the Kingston Townsend Glee Club was enthusiastically received. The singing of "God Bless America" by Mrs. Raymond Short was especially enjoyed by all present. There were several short addresses. The chief address was given by Frederick G. Brooks of Schenectady, leader in Eastern New York. About 20 members of Kingston Club were present.

The membership drive now on at the local club is creating much interest. Henry Daniels is captain of the men and Mrs. Nellie V. Conlin of the ladies' side. Nineteen new members were enrolled at the last meeting. The purpose of the contest is to double the membership by 1940.

Friday evening of this week Kingston Club will send a delegation to Nyack to attend a rally.

The Townsend National Weekly contains an article each week by Dr. Carr Miller, president of the local club.

Social Security Amendments Will Help Children

Two amendments to the Social Security Act will materially increase the protection provided for children, it was stated today by John Form, manager of the Kingston Field Office of the Social Security Board.

Beginning January 1, 1940, under the amendments, monthly benefits will be paid to minor children and to their mothers when an insured worker dies. For each unmarried child under 16, or 18 if attending school, a sum equal to 50 per cent of the worker's monthly benefit will be paid. It has been estimated that this extension of the retirement plan to survivors of insured workers may bring nearly 200,000 children into this system in 1940.

Under another amendment, additional aid will be provided to dependent children under federal-state cooperation. Increasing federal aid to dependent children from one-third to one-half should enable the states to provide more adequate care for needy children not previously covered. At present, 40 states, the District of Columbia and Hawaii are taking part in this program and are aiding more than 718,000 children. In New York state, Mr. Form stated, approximately 72,000 children participate in the Aid-To-Dependent Children program.

To Give Show

There will be an entertainment at the T. X. T. Club house, Flatbush, Friday evening, October 13, beginning at 8 o'clock for the benefit of the Flatbush Reformed Church, under the direction of Miss Mildred Davis and Miss Helen Anderson. Refreshments will be for sale after the entertainment.

Civilians Flee Finnish Towns; Nation Awaits Developments

Helsinki, Oct. 11 (AP)—A civilian exodus from Helsinki and Viipuri was in full swing today as the Finns anxiously awaited developments in Moscow, where a delegation headed by former Premier Dr. Juho Kusti Paasikivi arrived for "political and economic" talks with Soviet leaders.

This followed increased military activity by Finland and an experimental blackout of this capital city last night.

Responsible Finnish sources said a firm refusal would be the nation's answer to any Soviet Russian request for military and economic concessions such as Russia obtained recently from Estonia, Latvia and Lithuania.

With many women and children having already left the city, in response to a radio appeal yesterday by Interior Minister Urho Kekkonen, approximately 129,000 persons have signified their readiness to leave. Of these, 64,000 were children under 16, their nurses or guardians, and adult invalids.

Railway and bus stations were crowded with persons leaving the cities, chiefly for the country. Long lines of women and children stood at ticket windows. All schools were closed.

The Halsinki station was crowded at dawn and as the day wore on, the lines leading to the ticket windows stretched out a block long. The busiest windows were those distributing free tickets provided by the government for those unable to afford the fares.

The population was grim and calm.

In order to facilitate the exodus the government lifted the ban against private automobiles, and gasoline was placed on sale. The city council of Helsinki placed half of the municipal bus facilities at the disposal of thise leaving the city.

Foreign Minister Eljas Erkko, in a newspaper article, emphasized the solidarity of the Scandinavian bloc, to which Finland is closely bound, and saw signs of unrest in western nations aroused by the "menace" from the east. He suggested the possibility of a radical change in the development of the war within the next few days.

Open Meeting Tonight On Crossing Question

The revised plan for the elimination of the grade crossings of the West Shore railroad in the city will be submitted for discussion at the public hearing to be held this evening by Mayor C. J. Heiselman at the city hall.

The hearing, which will begin at 8 o'clock, will be held in the council chambers in the city hall, and it is expected that it will be largely attended.

The grade crossing question has been agitated in Kingston for over a quarter of a century, and its solution is of vital interest to the city.

Weather Hampers French Operations On Western Front

General Staff Says Enemy Patrols Are Repulsed South of Saarbruecken During the Night

Paris, Oct. 11 (AP)—Bad weather hampered operations on the western front today as the French general staff announced that fresh attacks by "strong enemy patrols" had been repulsed south of Saarbruecken and Pirmasens during the night.

The attacks apparently were a continuation of thrusts which the Germans launched Sunday on a 35-mile front east of the Moselle river.

Reference to fighting in the region of Pirmasens, 55 miles east of the Moselle, was taken as an indication of the increasing scope of the German assaults.

The German attacks, French sources said, were led by "suicide squads" of hand grenade throwers supported by companies employing automatic guns.

"Feeler" Attack

Extent of the fighting was such, the French declared, as to give the impression of a coordinated "feeler" attack along the entire line between the Luxembourg border and the German industrial city of Saarbruecken.

French military men attached significance to the fact that the activity followed closely Premier Daladier's radio speech refusing Adolf Hitler's peace formula based on the partition of Poland by Germany and Soviet Russia.

Some observers expressed belief the German attacks were the prelude to a large scale offensive which might be expected before the end of the week.

This belief, they said, was supported by Hitler's speech yesterday, in which the fuehrer declared that Germany is "prepared to take up the battle and fight it through" if his peace overtures were rejected.

Fighting called Savage

French military headquarters last night described the fighting during the preceding 24 hours as "savage," and the Germans were said to have paid heavily.

Although caught in a heavy cross-fire from machine guns, some of the Germans advanced close enough to hurl grenades into the French lines, it was said.

Meanwhile, French troops which previously had occupied the Borg forest at the extreme northern end of the front were reported keeping a wary eye on the Luxembourg border. The French apparently were not willing to disregard possibility of a German attack through the neutral principality of Luxembourg, whose military strength is limited to an army of about 10 officers and 400 men.

At home, the government continued action against deputies of the former Communist party, who have urged peace talks with Germany. Of 49 of these deputies not mobilized with the French armed forces, 39 already were in jail.

An award by the U. S. Maritime Commission yesterday to the federal Shipbuilding and Drydock Co., for eight 7,549-ton cargo vessels, total cost $16,432,000, completes all awards to be made by the commission for C-2 type boats. The 40 boats of this type now on order are included in the 137 ships under the marine rehabiltation program.

War Department ordered from Wright Aeronautical $6,963,292 airplane engines of two designs and spare parts. In addition the department has made awards during the past two weeks totaling $24,062,696 for a wide variety of articles. Included was a contract for 65,000 Garand rifles, to be manufactored by Winchester Repeating Arms Co. at a cost of $8,710,000.

Carloadings for last week are estimated at about 830,000 cars, a slight decline, but less than seasonal, from last week's total of 834,640.

Shipments this month by U. S. Steel of finished products are expected to be in excess of one million tons, which would be best since September, 1937, when the total was 1,047,962 tons. With the corporation booked practically to capacity in many lines, with consumers forced to take deliveries before the end of the year, it is expected that November and December will continue to show the same rate, in which event deliveries for the last quarter will exceed 3,000,000 tons. With prices improved profits for the quarter should reflect these conditions.

Despite the 15-day shutdown of oil wells in six states during August indications are that the oil industry made gains in profits during the third quarter of the year, as compared with the June period. It is figured that, as a whole, the industry during the first nine months showed a decline of about 30 per cent as compared with the same period in 1938.

Department of Agriculture forecasts a corn crop of 2,532,417,000 bushels, which would be about 10,000,000 buchels less than the crop harvested last year.

The stock market did not react yesterday and as a matter of fact lost ground in the last hour of trading when 360,000 of the day's total of 950,000 shares changed hands. Industrials in the Dow-Jones list showed a net gain for the day of .77 point, to 150.66, after advancing to 151.37 earlier in the afternoon. Rails closed at 33.80, below the high for the day and a net gain of .19. Utilities were ahead .41 point for the day, to 25.36.

Major commodity markets were stronger, the Dow-Jones commodity index advancing over a point for the day. Market was strongest in the afternoon as belief that the European conflict would be a short one began to disappear. Cotton futures gained five to nine points. Wheat was strong closing 1⅞ to 2¼ cents higher in Chicago.

At the annual meeting of the American Retail Federation yesterday retailers were urged to do everything in their power to explain to consumers why price increases have taken place. At the same time 127 manufacturing and wholesaling firms in Chicago have agreed not to raise prices arbitrarily during the present uncertain war conditions.

Best & Co. declared 40 cents on common stock, Adams-Millis Corp. 25 cents, New York Air Brake 50 cents, all unchanged from August payments. S. H. Kress voted regular payment of 40 cents on common.

Doctors Declare Mrs. Davison Not Stable Mentally

as a matter of courtesy and if Judge Cochrane failed to invite me, I had no legal right to be there. Tie that if you can.

"On that same day a Mrs. Ella Kranz of Monticello was in court complaining of a lawyer, who had swindled her out of her $8,000 property and turned this home over to his sister for $200. The Kranz's believed they were signing a lease whereas it was really a deed. They were beaten at the behest of this woman, so badly that the husband was confined to a hospital for weeks. It took five years to get this case to trial. The Kranz's won but by that time they had been reduced to such poverty that they could not hold their home and are now on public relief with five small children. Verdict—no cause for action. The lawyer was young and inexperienced when he did these things.

"The previous day a Mrs. Weber of Old Liberty road, Monticello, was in the same court complaining of a lawyer, who had pocketed tax money she had paid to him and her home had been sold for taxes. Verdict—No cause for action. The lawyer was young and inexperienced."

Other typewritten sheets bearing substantially the same matter had been circulated about the streets.

Mrs. Davison was arrested last Friday by Kingston police on a disorderly conduct charge as she was picketing the court house. At that time she wore a "sandwich" sign on which various remarks relative to the courts of this district were written.

Mrs. Davison's actions arise out of a case which she had in Sullivan county some time ago when she sued for malicious prosecution. At that time she was awarded a verdict of $1,000 and her grievance is that the attorney, a Sullivan county lawyer, was awarded what she considered too large a fee. At the time of the trial there she is alleged to have made the statement that she did not want any of the money and told the attorney to "take it all" and that what she wanted was to be "vindicated." Later she disputed an agreement as to fees and accused the attorney of taking more than was fair. Her complaint of his conduct went before the Appellate Division which referred the matter to Justice A. V. S. Cochrane for a hearing and at that hearing testimony was introduced which exonerated the attorney from any mis-conduct and that finding was approved by the Appellate Division.

The appellate division also lifted all costs of the proceeding relative to the fixing of counsel fees so that she might take an appeal to the appellate division. She did not appeal that matter but lodged the complaint with the appellate division of misconduct by the attorney. On his being vindicated she apparently has decided to take the matter in her own hands.

Appears at Special Term

Friday she appeared at the regular special term here before Justice Schirick and made statements in open court as to the integrity of the justices of the district when Justice Schirick informed her he could not open her case. She said she would "take the matter to the public" and began her picketing of the court house. On being arrested by police for disorderly conduct she was taken before Justice Schirick and held until today for a hearing on the contempt of court charge which was lodged. After the city court had held her for a hearing later on the disorderly conduct charge she was examined by two physicians and on their report to the court that she was "mentally unbalanced" Justice Schirick withheld any present action today on the contempt of court charge.

Mrs. Roosevelt's Birthday

Washington, Oct. 11 (AP)—Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt had a birthday anniversary today—her 55th—but the busy first lady's activities went on as usual. Two of her four sons, James and Elliott, "just happened" to be in town on business, Mrs. Roosevelt explained, and hence could see her cut a birthday cake with 21 candles—the maximum at family parties. Otherwise there was nothing in the way of celebration. Three wives of diplomats were coming to call.

SOCIAL ACTIVITIES

Responsibilities Of Club Told Women

Miss Gertrude V. Bruyn, field secretary of Mount Holyoke College, spoke to the members of the College Women's Club last evening on "The Responsibilities of a College Club." The meeting was the first of the year and was held at The Huntington.

Miss Bruyn said that there are three types of responsibilities, social, promotional and civic. She explained that, although sociability is an incidental factor to the college group, it is important in holding the organization together.

The promotional program consists of responsibilities of helping with scholarship funds to make it possible for worthy students to attend college and of privileges as an organization of interesting high school and preparatory students in attending college. She suggested teas for entering freshmen, sponsoring "go to college" days at the high school and supporting individual alumnae clubs.

The raising of money for scholarships, said Miss Bruyn, holds an important place in solidifying college groups helping to recreate intellectual and spiritual relations which were once enjoyed by the members as former college students.

The civic program Miss Bruyn felt to be the most important of the opportunities for a college club. Standing for something in the community and stimulating intellectual fellowship and social responsibility will be demonstrated by taking active part in the politics of the community and by joining various progressive civic minded and cultural group.

In conclusion she said, "I believe that the opportunities of a College Club are with incidental sociability, promotional programs for their composite Alma Mater, and practical and demonstrated citizenship of trained emotions and trained minds in the community. To save democracy in America demands intolerance, integrity, intelligence and citizenship."

Preceding the address a short business meeting was held. Two new members were accepted into membership, Mrs. Arthur Laidlaw, who holds an A. B. from St. Lawrence University, and Mrs. Vincent Connelly, who holds a B. S. degree from New York University.

A social hour followed. Hostesses for the evening were Mrs. John Bott, Mrs. Charles Arnold, Miss Laura Bailey, Mrs. James Betts, Mrs. Herbert Bloom, Miss Mary Bott, Mrs. Hamilton Boyd, Mrs. Ward Brigham, Miss Dorothy Brooks and Mrs. Robert Kershaw.

The dance last year was held at Poughkeepsie. Kingston representatives on the dance committee are Fred Green, Miss Marguerite Madden, C. E. Burnett, and James F. Hospital Nurses Feted at Dinner

Members of the graduating class of the Kingston Hospital School of Nursing who will be graduated this evening were guests of honor last evening at an informal dinner party at the Coq D'Or given by the hospital auxiliary. Covers were laid for 25. Three of the nurses who are on experience duty were unable to attend. Red roses, the class flower, were used for the centerpiece. Gifts of evening bags, wrapped in the class colors of blue and silver, were at the place of each guest.

During the dinner a three-piece orchestra played request selections, with numbers especially appropriate to each of the graduates.

The dinner was in charge of Mrs. Harold L. Rakov, chairman, assisted by Mrs. Kenneth H. LeFever and Mrs. Stanley J. Matthews.

On Friday evening the annual hospital alumnae dance will be held at the Governor Clinton Hotel and will be the first social function attended by the graduates as alumnae. The arrangements are in charge of Miss Frances DeWitt, chairman, assisted by Miss Helen Rifenbary, president of the alumnae association.

It is expected that approximately 150 couples will attend. In addition to the graduates and alumnae and their escorts the members of the medical staff and the board of managers will be present.

Music Specialist For Recreation Dep't

Boston, Oct. 10.—The music specialist of the National Recreation Association, Siebolt Frieswyk, has been signed to work with the department of recreation at Kingston for the two-week period beginning October 16, it was announced this morning at the National Recreation Congress in Boston, where nearly 1,500 recreation executives have convened for the 24th annual congress.

Mr. Frieswyk will come to Kingston at no cost to the local recreation department but as a service of the national association, which is a privately endowed organization for the promotion of recreation in America.

At a conference with Sidney G. Lutzin, superintendent of recreation, who is attending the congress, Mr. Frieswyk said a survey of the musical life in the community will be made to help pave the way for community music programs as an aspect of the whole recreation program.

It is expected that a luncheon will be arranged for late next week for the purpose of discussing plans for those who have had training in band, orchestra and chorus work.

Frieswyk is a graduate of Harvard University and holds A. B. and M. A. degrees from that institution; he was graduate manager of the Harvard Glee Club. Mr. Frieswyk has conducted music institutes at many leading state colleges.

Good Taste Today

by Emily Post

(Author of "Etiquette," "The Personality of a House," "The Blue Book of Social Usage," etc.)

Wife and Wage Earner

Dear Mrs. Post: My wife and I were married five years ago, and at that time she promised that she would give up her job in six months. Well, she is still working. I want her to stop working and stay home, but she says that so long as she makes as much as I do she is going to continue to work. Of course I think that if I had the proper home surroundings I would try all the harder to make more money. Would you please write something in your column about this?

Answer: This is a never-to-be completely answered question, but it seems to me that the problem boils down to three further, and personal, questions: 1—What does your wife's job take away from your home? 2—What does it contribute to it? 3—Is the balance on the detracting or the contributing side? Unless a woman's husband and her home come really first to her, she should not marry. If her job makes her a better and more interesting—more understanding—companion, and if she can efficiently run her house too, then the job is on the asset side. But if it leaves her a tired and nervous wreck at the end of a day, and if, moreover, she doesn't make enough to more than pay for somebody else to do the cooking and housework, then it seems to me that she should give up her job. On the other hand, with the economic situation what it is, thousands of marriages could not be thought of unless one small pay check was added to by another. A women who has been trained for a job should not waste that training while neither she nor her husband have any real security. If they have, that's something else again.

The "Trap" Invitation

Dear Mrs. Post: The other day I got "roped in," as it were, to accepting an invitation, and now I have to get out of it some way—if I want to keep my husband on speaking terms with me. A woman I knew very slightly called me on the telephone and said, "What are you doing next Tuesday evening?" Without thinking I said, "Nothing." And then she answered, "That's fine. Because then you and your husband can come to my dinner. I'll expect you at seven o'clock." There wasn't anything else to say although I was afraid my husband would not want to go—and he doesn't. When people ask you point-blank like that, what you are going to do, what can you say?

Answer: To begin with, no one should ever say, "What are you doing tomorrow night?" It is setting a trap. If you say you are doing nothing, you find yourself in the situation you are now in. The safe answer is: "I'm not sure—John may have made an engagement." Or, if you have many engagements: "I have to look in my book," or any other "outlet of doubt" about being free. But if you say, "We are doing nothing," it is practically impossible not to accept, and having accepted, nothing less consequential than illness or unavoidable business could release you.

MODES of the MOMENT

By ADELAIDE KERR

The news in 1940 wools is warmth without weight. These New Yorkers wear fall frocks whose sheer crepey weaves reflect it. At left is one of the new shirt-and-skirt frocks (noteworthy in spectator sports clothes) combining a gray-green shirt with a deeper green skirt whose flap pocket buttons. Dark olive green belt and buttons spike it. Taupe brown wool makes the frock at the right, whose full skirt hangs in unpressed pleats and whose bodice is buttoned with gold globes.

New Dribble Rule Likely To Attract More College Players Into Pro League

"The important change in rules to be introduced in the American basketball during the coming season, whereby a player is permitted to dribble only with the use of one hand instead of using two hands as has been customary for several years, promises to invite a more distinctive group of college stars into thee ranks of every club in the circuit than ever before," said President John J. O'Brien.

"The lack of familiarity with the professional game," he continued, particularly due to the two-hand dribble, has prevented many college stars from making their value felt until after spending a year or two on the bench with the various professional clubs. It is expected that this change alone will modify this condition somewhat and enable these newer men to more quickly acclimate themselves to the requirements of the post-graduate school as exemplified in professional league basketball."

Promising Rookies

Some of the rookies trying for league berths are: Irving Torgoff of Long Island University, regarded as possibly the greatest college basketeer to play in Madison Square Garden during the past two seasons, who will be with the Jersey Reds, together with "Cy" Schneidman of City College; with the Visitations, who are to play in Baltimore, will be Bill Thomas of Dartmouth, and Gus Drum of Long Island University; the Kingston Colonials have added Joe Murphy of Georgetown; Washington will try out Hal Keisel and Carroll Shores of George Washington; and Birch of Duquesne; Wilkes-Barre counts on Leftkowitz of City College, and Bowman of St. Thomas.

Troy will have a large squad of newcomers headed by Dolgoff of St. John's, Bromberg of Long Island University; Kopitko of City College and Schneider and Shaback of the A. A. U. South American combination of a year ago. The New York Jewels have been looking over a host of new candidates, the most promising of whom appears to be Lanowicz of St. Francis, while the Philadelphia Hebrews look with favor on Rabinowitz of Long Island University.

The Colonials have been working out for the past week with Nat Holman's C. C. N. Y. squad at New York city and should be in good shape for their first exhibition game at the municipal auditorium on Wednesday, November 1.

Church Basketball Meeting

President Ken Slater has called a meeting for the Church Basketball League of Kingston for tomorrow night at 7:30 o'clock in the Y. M. C. A. All church representatives are asked to be present as this is the organization meeting and new officers will be elected for the coming season. Last year's referees are also asked to be present.

Saturday May Be Big Day For Southern Grid Teams

New York, Oct. 11 (AP)—Looking at things entirely from the intersectional angle, this is likely to be about the biggest week of the 1939 football season and another one which will enhance the prestige of southern football.

On a percentage basis southern teams still are below the .500 mark in their major encounters with northern rivals, but in the matter of glory they're tops and apparently headed still higher. Duke over Colgate, Albama over Fordham, Louisiana State over Holy Cross, Mississippi State over Arkansas and Vanderbilt over Rice have been major southern triumphs against other sections. Then there have been such equally amazing affairs as the close scores of Georgia Tech against Notre Dame and Furman, Centre and Virginia, which didn't figure to win at all, against Army and Navy.

This week's program looks like much the same sort of stuff, although the east figures to get off to a head start when Boston College, apparently powerful though still untried, faces twice-beaten Florida on Thursday.

North Carolina, with a wealth of fine backs including those "touchdown twins," George Stirnweiss and Jim Lalanne, figures to have the best of New York University. Fordham doesn't appear strong enough to stop Tulane at New Orleans. So far, the Rams have been a one-track team without the line to make their power plays effective.

Duke, invading the north, should be able to tackle Pitt's Panthers at least on even terms although the game should differ vastly from last year's test of sheer power. Georgia, off its loss to Furman, isn't quite good enough to handle Holy Cross unless all those injury stories from Worcester are true.

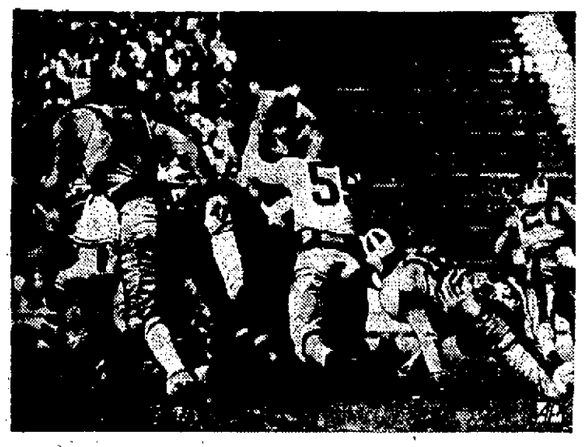
Bringing the southwest into the argument, Rice and Louisiana State should have a whale of a tussle and Texas A. and M., apparently one of the strongest of the southwest conference teams, may get a real argument from Villanova's powerful outfit. Southern Methodist is a good possibility to upset Notre Dame, which has had two close squeaks so far. Texas Christian, dethroned champions, likely will find a long trip and a fairly good Temple team too much to overcome.

Another great tussle may be that between Texas, winner of two important intersectional games so far, and Oklahoma, which tied S. M. U. and trimmed Northwestern. Their conference schedules put them in different sections though they're not so far apart.

The mid-west figures to break about even with Carnegie Tech, possibly the East's best team, rated well ahead of Case and Harvard over Chicago while Detroit figures to "take" Catholic University in the leading east-west contests. Kansas and Kansas State of the Big Six shouldn't have any serious trouble against Colorado and Colorado State but Illinois, unless cagy Bob Zuppke has something important up his sleeve, doesn't look like a match for Southern California.

Future-Book For ALL-AMERICA

(AP Feature Service)



JAY GRAYBEAL, Oregon's left halfback, is one of the Pacific Coast aces. He not only can run and pass but is a fine field goal kicker. He scored all of Oregon's 10 points against Stanford.

GRENVILLE LANSDELL, Southern California's quarterback, is highly rated in the Far West. Lansdell sparked the Trojans to a decisive win over Washington State, scoring twice, once on a 39-yard run.

BOB SAGGAU is Notre Dame's triple-threat halfback. Irish hopes for an unbeaten season are pinned on him. His passing and running helped turn back Purdue and Georgia Tech in Notre Dame's early games.

NILE KINNICK, Iowa halfback, has given the Hawkeyes a dangerous aerial attack. Indiana got a taste of it when Kinnick pitched three touchdown passes to End Erwin Prasse to beat the Hoosiers.

KEN KAVANAUGH, Louisiana's big, rangy end, is one of the best pass-snatchers. He had a field day against Holy Cross, scoring four touchdowns on passes, one an interception. Here he is snagging one.

Jackets Meet Walden Team Tonight Under Floodlights

The Yellow Jackets will trot out of the locker rooms tonight and on the field determined to chalk up their third consecutive victory. Their opponents will be the Walden Tigers in the second floodlight attraction of the season at the municipal stadium.

Coach Don Beany's lineup, scheduled to start the ball flying promptly at 8 o'clock, are heavy favorites to win. Yellow Jackets officials announced last night that all games will be started promptly at their scheduled time. Radio loudspeakers have been secured for the game and a play by play description will be broadcast to spectators.

Coach Beany will start the same lineup that made short work of the Newburgh Recs last Friday. The Wasps have been drilled strenuously since the last tilt to remove all rough edges on the offensive.

The Tigers, coached by George Scofield of Walden High School, have made a brilliant record over the past two seasons. Scofield has turned out fine teams and is recognized as one of the best coaches in the vicinity.

The Tigers will turn loose two of the finest backfield men around, Bing O'Neil and Red Stickles. O'Neil has been rated as one of the best all round athletes to be found in Orange county.

Kingston's backfield, Minasian, Cullum, Tiano and Koczanowcke, claimed to have regained their stride and promise plenty of action and scoring.

White Sox Finds Lyons Handy Man

Chicago, Oct. 11 (AP)—After 17 years, the Chicago White Sox still find Teddy Lyons, the 38-year-old righthander, a handy man to have around.

Lyons, smart and steady as ever, pitched the Sox to the city baseball championship last night, setting the National League Cubs down with five hits for a 7 to 1 victory in the seventh game of the series. The victory, Lyons' second of the series, gave the Sox their fifth straight city diadem. The Cubs, who had a three-to-one edge through Saturday's game, have not won a series from the American Leaguers since 1930.

The Sox knocked Earl Whitehill, 39-year-old southpaw, out of the box in the second inning when they sewed up the game with four runs. Later they scored three more off Claude Passeau.

Last night's game drew 14,781 spectators in 53-degree weather.

Hartford, Conn.—Marty Servo, 135, Schenectady, N. Y., outpointed Jerry Zullo, 133, Boston (8); Bobby (Poison) Ivy, 129, Hartford, outpointed George (Dusty) Brown, 131½, New Bedford, Mass. (8).

New Haven, Conn.—Dick Turcotte, 146, Waterbury, Conn., outpointed George Pepe, 145, Meriden, Conn. (8).

FOOTBALL BRIEFS

(By The Associated Press)

College Park, Md.—Frank Dobson, Maryland's coach, and Frank Murray of Virginia can't complain if their scouting of each other's teams fails to produce the right results. Murray and his aides watched the Terrapins beat Western Maryland last Saturday night after Dobson had taken in the Virginia-Navy game at Annapolis in the afternoon.

Albuquerque, N. M.—Groans from the New Mexico University locker room are mingled with the moans of Coach Ted Shipkey this week. Nine players on the Lobos' squad were crippled in last Friday's 7-6 victory over Denver and Shipkey isn't exactly expecting flowers and soft music when his team tangles with the Texas Miners here next Friday.

New York—Leave it to Clair Bee of Long Island University to think of something new in the coaching line. His latest is "guest coaches." Bee, who revived football at L. I. U. this year after eight seasons, had various coaching colleagues drop in to give his boys pointers last spring and during the pre-season training. This week it's Art French, former Harvard captain and end, who is expected to lend a hand preparing for the Blackbirds' first intersectional test against Bradley Tech, October 21.

Baton Rouge, La.—Three Houston boys will be playing for Louisiana State against Rice, their home-town college, next Saturday. Young Bussey and Ashford Simms are due to start in the Tigers' backfield while Woodrow Barrett will be at end on either the first or second team. All three played together at Houston's San Jacinto High School.

Notre Dame, Ind.—Notre Dame's gridmen don't like to be tagged the "Ramblers"—they'll have you know they're "Irish"—but they certainly have a rambling schedule this year. They started with Georgia Tech last week, play Southern Methodist next Saturday, then Navy at Cleveland, Carnegie Tech at Pittsburgh and Army at New York before they tackle another mid-western rival, Iowa, at Iowa City, November 11.

Noted Turfman Dies of Stroke

Baltimore, Oct. 11 (AP)—Ral Parr, 62, the turfman who owned a Derby winner but said he liked the insurance business better than racing, died unexpectedly last night

Parr's black, white and red silks, the oldest active colors registered with the New Jersey Jockey Club, were up when Paul Jones won the Kentucky Derby and the Belmont Suburban in 1920 But Parr once said.

"My horses are nothing more than hobbies What I'm chiefly interested in is my business"

The insurance brokerage firm he built up is one of the largest in Maryland

Parr, who suffered a stroke at Saratoga in 1935, was stricken with another last night in the historic Maryland Club and died a few hours later.

Aged Telegrapher Dies at Oswego

The death of Miss Eliza Stone, one of the first women telegraphers in the United States, was reported from Oswego Monday, at the advanced age of 97 years She was a resident of the Old Ladies Home in Oswego

Accounts state that Miss Stone was a telegraph operator in a railroad office when the great Chicago fire broke out in 1871, remaining at her post until driven out by the flames.

She was accustomed to tell how she and a companion gathered their belongings into trunks, drove miles out of the city and buried the trunks along the shore of the lake Later Miss Stone found that her trunk had been stolen, but that of her companion was found. She also told of seeing people wading out into Lake Michigan to escape the heat from the flames.

It is stated that Miss Stone was a native of Napanoch, this county, but one of the older former residents of that village when questioned was unable to bring to mind any family by that name as residents of the village.

Since 1874 Miss Stone had resided at Sterling and at Oswego.

Because of "unsettled conditions" in Europe, Poland withdrew its exhibit at the annual Canadian National Exhibition this year, but expressed confidence the country "will be exhibiting again next year."
